SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURAL MECHANIZATION IN CHINA

Abstract:

Agricultural mechanization is an important symbol and main component of agricultural modernization, and a leading factor in the process. The Chinese Government attaches great importance to the development of agriculture and agricultural mechanization, promotes the transformation of agricultural production and organizational methods, strengthens policy support and industry guidance, greatly supports the extension and application of green and sustainable mechanization technologies, and continuously improves the agricultural ecological environment to achieve sustainable development.